

Declaration of conformity relating to Aptamil infant milk product ranges

At Danone, manufacturer of Aptamil brand, babies' health is our absolute priority. All formulas are manufactured in accordance with strict quality and food safety standards and are subjected to rigorous testing before leaving our factories.

Since the end of January 2026, Danone has entrusted Mérieux NutriSciences, a leading testing, inspection, and certification group offering independent food testing services through a global network of ISO 17025 accredited laboratories, to carry out its cereulide testing.

According to the Danone sampling and control plan, representative samples from each batch are analysed for cereulide in accordance with the relevant ISO method at the raw material, semi-finished and finished product stages.

The analytical results obtained for the samples tested showed conformity with the applicable cereulide specifications.

Danone hereby concludes that the production batch complies with the applicable specifications.
